4. Reading

Trafalgar Square

► The best –known square is Trafalgar Square. It was named to commemorate Admiral Lord Nelson’s naval victory over the French at Trafalgar in 1805. The huge Nelson Column towers 56 meters above the square. It is surrounded by fountains designed in 1939 and four huge bronze lions.

Hyde Park

► Hyde Park is one of the largest parks in central London, England and one of the Royal Parks of London, famous for its Speakers’ Corner. The park is divided in two by the Serpentine.

Buckingham Palace

► Buckingham Palace has been the official royal residence since 1837. When the Queen is staying in the palace the Royal Standard flag flies above the central balcony. There are about 600 rooms at the palace.

The Houses of Parliament

► The Houses of Parliament serve as the meeting place of two legislative bodies, the House of Commons and the House of Lords. The buildings are officially called the New Palace of Westminster. The Houses of Parliament has over 1000 rooms and over 3 km of corridors. Laid out they stretch from Parliament to Saint Paul’s Cathedral.

Big Ben

► Big Ben is the huge bell in the clock of Saint Stephen's Tower. It may have been named after Sir Benjamin Hall, who supervised the rebuilding of Parliament, or after a famous Victorian prizefighter. Big Ben has boomed out the hours since 1859.

Tower Bridge

► Tower Bridge is one of the landmarks of London. It is a fine example of Victorian engineering. This fairy-tale structure was built in 1894. Tower Bridge is the only Thames Bridge which can be raised.
